Vaccine Institution.

THE small pox having appeared in Alexandria, such persons as have been vaccinated by the subscriber are invited to attend at his office, on St. Asaph-street, between Prince and Duke streets, to have their arms examined. Indigent persons are also invited to the same place for the purpose of being vaccinated. The subscriber will attend at his office every day in the week except Sunday, from 7 o'clock until 10 in the morning, for the purpose of receiving them.

He proposes also to be less particular than heretofore in the investigation of their claims to the benefit of the institution, as may respect their indigence and length of residence in town. The subscriber earnestly requests all such citizens as may be acquainted with persons liable to contagion, to send them without delay as above directed, where they will be served effectually and gratuitously.

February 24

For Sale or Lease,

THE following tracts of land in Charles county, Maryland: one lying on the Potomac, at the mouth of Pomonkey creek, containing three hundred and forty acres, about 16 miles from Alexandria, the larger portion level land, of a stiff soil, well adapted to the cultivation of corn, wheat and tobacco, and equal in fertility to any in the neighborhood. On this farm is one of the most elegant sites for building of all those fine heights which border the Potomac, commanding the most extensive view of the adjacent country, both in Virginia and Maryland, for more than twenty miles up and down the river: located in a genteel neighborhood, it would make an agreeable residence, and from its proximity to market, with the advantage of the best navigation, an extremely profitable farm.—The tenant's houses would accommodate the negroes for its cultivation.

A Tract, about one mile back from the former, containing 334 acres, a large portion in wood, white and red oak, and some chesnut; the remainder a tenement in tolerable repair, the whole a high stiff soil, similar to the one above mentioned.

A Tract, lying at the mouth of Mattawoman Creek, about 25 miles from Alexandria, the whole first rate flat river land, now completely enclosed.—On this tract is a noted fishery, called Rum Point, at which there has been cleared upwards of two thousand dollars per annum, and where independent of the fish sold on the shore, there might be put up from one to two thousand barrels every season; besides the profits of the fishery, the advantage of manuring the farm with the offal of the shore, the whole, with a small portion of industry, might be made to produce ten barrels of corn per acre. On the shore, are a dwelling house, houses for holding salt, and curing any quantity of fish, and for the accommodation of hands.

A Tract, lying about 14 miles from the last mentioned, containing 236 acres, more than 200 of which are in wood, and would cut from 25 to 30 cords per acre, within one mile of the river, where wood has rarely sold for less than five dollars per cord. It will be divided into 50 or 25 acre lots, to suit purchasers.—If preferred, the wood will be sold standing, for so much per acre.

If not disposed of, previous to the first day of Sept. next, the above mentioned arable lands, will be leased out, upon advantageous terms, for five or seven years, at the option of the lessees.

Application to be made to the subscriber, residing near the head of Mattawoman Creek, Charles county, Maryland.

THURSDAY, JULY 1, 1819.

A FRIEND OF THE CONSTITUTION.—NO. II.

I gladly take leave of the bitter invectives which compose the first number of Hampden, and proceed to a less irksome task—the examination of his argument.

These are introduced by laying down these propositions which he declares to be incontrovertible in themselves, and which he seems to suppose, demonstrate the errors of the opinion he censures.

I do not hazard much when I say that these propositions, if admitted to be true, so far from demonstrating the error of that opinion, do not even draw it into question. They may be all true, and yet every principle laid down in the opinion be perfectly correct.

The first is that the constitution conveyed only a limited grant of powers to the general government, and reserved the residuary powers to the government of the states and to the people.

Instead of controverting this proposition, I beg leave to add to the numerous respectable authorities quoted by Hampden in support of it, one other which, in this controversy at least, is entitled to some consideration, because it is furnished by the opinion he condemns. The supreme court say, The government (of the United States) is acknowledged by all to be one of enumerated powers. The principle that it can exercise only the powers granted to it, would seem too apparent to have required to be enforced by all those arguments which its enlightened friends, while it was depending before the people, found it necessary to urge. That principle is now universally admitted. But the question respecting the extent of the powers actually granted, is perpetually arising, and will probably continue to arise, as long as our system shall exist.

The supreme court then has affirmed this proposition in terms as positive as those used by Hampden. The judges did not indeed fortify it by authority, nor was the necessity of doing so very apparent, as mathematicians do not demonstrate axioms, neither do judges or lawyers always deem it necessary to prove propositions, the truth of which " is universally admitted."

2d. The second proposition is that the limited grant to congress of certain enumerated powers, only carried with it such additional powers as were fairly incidental to them; or in other words, were necessary and proper for their execution.

I will here remark, merely for the sake of perspicuity, that the second branch of this proposition which seems to be intended as explanatory of the first, introduces I think a distinct idea. The power to do a thing, and the power to carry that thing into execution, are I humbly conceive, the same power, and the one cannot be termed with propriety " additional" or "incidental" to the other. Under the confederation congress could do scarcely any thing, that only could only make requisitions on the states. The passage of a resolution requiring the states to furnish certain specified sums of money, was not an " additional" or "incidental" power, but a mode of executing that which was granted. Under the constitution, the powers of government are given in terms which authorise and require congress to execute them.—The execution is of the essence of the power. Thus congress can lay and collect taxes. A law to lay and collect taxes, and making all the provisions to bring the money into the treasury, is not the exercise of an " additional power" but the execution of one expressly granted. The laws which punish those who resist the collection of the revenue, or which subject the estates of collection in the first instance to the claim of the United States, or which make other collateral provisions, may be traced to incidental powers. Not to those laws which simply execute the granted power. They are a part of the original grant.

The proposition itself, I am perfectly willing to admit, and should pass it over without a comment as one in no degree controverting the principles contained in the opinion of the supreme court, did I not suppose that some attention to the quotation made by Hampden, might conduce to a more clear and distinct understanding of those quotations themselves, and of their application to the subject under consideration.

The object of making them is, I presume, to show that a general grant of a specific power or thing, does not carry with it those incidents, or those means for giving the grant full and complete effect, which the opinion of the supreme court contends for.

His first quotation from Vattel contains words which might easily mislead a careless reader. "Since" says that author, "a nation is obliged to preserve itself, it has a right to every thing necessary for its preservation. For the law of nature gives us a right to every thing, without which we could not fulfil our obligation; otherwise it would oblige us to do impossibilities, or rather would contradict itself, in prescribing a duty, and prohibiting at the same time the only means of fulfilling it."

Hampden has been caught by the words "necessary," "without which," and "only means," in the foregoing passage, which he has marked in italics or capitals, so as to give them a weight not given by the author, and has interred from them, and other passages in the same book, that what he denominates the incidental power, is limited to things strictly "necessary," or "without which" the obligation could not be fulfilled; and in no case, he says, "is a latitude allowed, as extensive as that claimed by the supreme court."

The great and obvious error of Hampden consists in this. He converts an affirmative into a negative proposition. He converts a declaration of Vattel, that a nation has a natural right to do certain things, into a declaration that a nation has no natural right to do other things. But for this, I could not ask a stronger passage to show that the terms on which Hampden relies, are employed in a very different sense from that in which he understands them. "A nation" says Vattel, "has a right to every thing necessary for its preservation." Will any man seriously contend that the rights of a nation are limited to those acts which are necessary for its preservation, in the sense affixed by Hampden to the term "necessary."? May it not pass the bounds of strict necessity, in order to consult or provide for its happiness, its convenience, its interest, its power? "The law of nature," says Vattel, "gives a right to every thing without which we could not fulfil an obligation." But does it inhibit every thing else? If it does, then our obligations are sufficiently broad and latitudinous to cover the whole extent of human policy and human action.

"A nation," says Vattel, in the same page, speaking of the destruction of a state, "has a right to every thing which can secure it from such a threatening danger, and to keep at a distance whatever is capable of causing its ruin." There is plainly no difference between that which a nation may do for its preservation, and that which it may do to prevent its ruin. It is a continuation of the same subject; the author means to convey the same sentiment; the change of phraseology is merely casual; and it is obvious that the restrictive terms used in the passage quoted by Hampden, are employed in such a mitigated sense, as to have the same signification with the broader words subsequently used on the same subject. In the whole, the author plainly recognizes the right acknowledged and acted upon by all the world, of a nation to exercise all its foresight, its policy, and its means, for its own security; and of the necessity of resorting to those means, it is the sole judge.

I certainly do not perceive the application of these paragraphs, but they are pressed into the service by Hampden.

We are also referred to a passage in Vattel, which respects tacit or implied engagements. I shall quote it rather more at large than we find it in Hampden.—"Tacit faith," says that author, "is founded on a tacit consent, and tacit consent is that which is deduced by a just consequence from the steps taken by any one. Thus all that is included, as Grotius says, in the nature of certain acts on which an argument is made, is tacitly comprehended in the convention; or, in other words, every thing without which what is agreed cannot take place, is tacitly granted.—Several examples of the rule are then given; as, the allowance of provisions to an army which has stipulated for permission to return home in safety; and the security which is tacitly promised to an enemy who demands or accepts an interview.

I acquiesce implicitly in the rule as laid down by Vattel and by Grotius. I wish to extend tacit consent no farther than to that which is deduced by a just consequence from the steps taken by any one; nor to comprehend, by implication, more in a convention than "is included in the nature of certain acts on which an agreement is made." If the supreme court goes farther, I do not understand their opinion.

The case put by Vattel, and quoted by Hampden, of the grant of a free passage, is one on which I should particularly rely, as strongly supporting that liberal and just construction for which I contend.

The grant of a free passage seems, necessarily, to imply no more than that the sovereign who makes the grant shall remain passive, and to include only "every particular connected with the passage of troops," "such as the liberty of carrying whatever may be necessary to an army, that of exercising military discipline on the officers and soldiers, and that of buying at a reasonable rate every thing that an army may want." Yet it is construed to go much further, and to stipulate for something active on the part of the sovereign making it. "He who grants the passage," says Vattel, "is, as far as lies in his power, to take care that it should be safe." That is, he is not only not to injure, but to protect the army while in his territory.

This is certainly a reasonable construction of the grant; but if the implication be necessary, the necessity cannot be absolute or indispensable.

The care of a grant of a house to one man, and of a garden to another, which could be entered only through the house, is put by Vattel as an example of the restrictive, in opposition to the extensive interpretation. Hampden cannot mean to give this example as forming a general rule—that construction is always restrictive, and never extensive; and never even reasonable.

In truth, the only principle which can be extracted from Vattel, and safely laid down as a general independent rule is, that parts are to be understood according to the intention of the parties, and shall be construed liberally, or restrictively, as may best promote the objects for which they were made. For this I refer to his whole chapters on the faith, and on the interpretation of treaties. "The uncertainty of the sense," he observes, (b. 2. sec. 282) "that ought to be given to a law or a treaty, does not proceed from the obscurity, or any other fault in the expression, but also from the narrow limits of the human mind, which cannot foresee all cases and circumstances, or include all the consequences of what is appointed or promised; and, in short, from the impossibility of entering into the immense detail. We can only make laws or treaties in a general manner, and the interpretation ought to apply them to particular cases conformably to the intention of the legislature and of the contracting powers." "Again, (sec. 283) he says, "we do not presume that sensible persons had nothing in view in treating together, or in forming any other serious agreement. The interpretation which renders a treaty null, and without effect cannot then, be admitted." It ought to be interpreted in such a manner as that it may have its effect, and not be found vain and illusive." "It is necessary to give the words that sense which ought to be presumed most conformable to the intention of those who speak. If many different interpretations present themselves, proper to avoid the nullity or absurdity of a treaty, we ought to prefer that which appears most agreeable to the intention for which it was dictated."

I trust then Hampden will not charge me, as he has charged the supreme court, with using "high sounding words," when, in his own language, I say that "I take it to be a clear principle of universal law—of the law of nature, of nations, of war, and of reason," that all instruments are to be construed fairly, so as to give effect to their intention, and I appeal with confidence to the authority to which Hampden has introduced us, to support my proposition.

A FRIEND OF THE CONSTITUTION.

SENTENCE FOR PERJURY.

The court of common pleas and general sessions for this county, held its sessions for this week. The grand jury were discharged early in the afternoon of the second day. But two indictments were found. The commission of crimes appears to have received a great check. The traverse jury were discharged at 9 o'clock on Saturday, (this morning)—a circumstance unparalled in this county, and notwithstanding the crowded state of the calendar, all the causes ready for trial were disposed of, and all the criminal business. There was but one conviction. Joseph Perry was convicted of perjury, and sentenced to four years imprisonment in the state prison. The sentence was delivered by his honor Judge Hawley, as follows:—

Joseph Perry, the prisoner at the bar.—You have been arraigned before this court on an indictment for the heinous crime of perjury—to which indictment you pleaded not guilty, and have put yourself upon your country for trial. You have had the advantage of learned and able counsel, and after a minute and lengthy investigation, have been found guilty. The crime of perjury ranks among the first in its baneful effects upon community. There can be no safety in life, liberty or property, should this crime be permitted to go unpunished. It steals upon us in our unsuspecting moments, like the nightly incendiary and assassin—and no crime defined by our statutes receives so mild a punishment in proportion to its magnitude. Your situation excites the most lively feelings of the court—an old man bending beneath the weight of years, whose looks are whitened for the grave, convicted of so gross an offence as wilful perjury, presents a spectacle of no ordinary interest. What must be the reflections of a rational being in such a situation. Instead of rearing his family in the precepts and examples of truth and virtue—in the deline of life a perjured creature. The rational mind involuntarily revolts at such a spectacle.—But there is still time left you for repentance, and the court seriously beseech you to improve it. The court have taken into their deliberations your situation. You are their senior in years—your examples ought to have been models for youth to imitate; and from the advanced state of your life, they feel willing to reduce your punishment to as short a term as consistent with their duty. The sentence of the court therefore, is, that you be confined in the state prison at hard labor for the term of four years.

The 74 building at the navy-yard, in this city, progresses rapidly, notwithstanding there has been some delay occcsioned by the want of timber. We understand, however, that the requisite supply has now arrived. Nearly one half of her frame is up, and there appears to be a great quantity of timber prepared towards her completion Phil. Frank. Gaz.

Charleston, June 24.

VERY LATE FROM THE HAVANA.

Per schr. Comet, we this day received from our correspondent in the Havana, papers of that city to the 16th inst. which contain nothing interesting; and the following letter, dated "Havana, 16th June, 1819.

"It was reported to day, that a decree of the Court had been passed on the cases of the brig Patriot, and ship Benjamin, now under seizure in this port, as follows: all the property found on board, not cleared through the Custom-House, to be confiscated, and 300 per cent damages for specie found on board; the Patriot had between 26 and 28,000 dollars—the Benjamin 460 dollars, or thereabouts; these sums multiplied by three, make up a large amount. The case of the James Coulter is not yet decided, but the above cases will be a precedent for the latter, this decision, however, must be ratified by the Fiscal (a superior court) before it can take effect, and it is whispered that the Decree will be done away, confiscating merely the property found on board, not cleared.

" By the arrival of the mail from St. Jago, we have received the following statement of the market, up to the 30th ult.

Mess beef 18 a 25 dollars; prime 19; pork, mess. 28; flour 16 a 17; fish (cod) 6 a 7½; scale fish 5; candles, mould, 25; sperm. 56 cts. per lb.; lard 25 a 31; butter 25 a 26; cheese 20; bams 25; boards 20; shooks and heading 1¾ each; soap, Am. 14; pitch 6 a 7; tar 5½ a 6; claret wine, cask, 28 a 40; Catalonia 70 per pipe.

Exports—White sugar 10 a 11 dollars; brown 6 a 9; muscovado 6½ a 7; molasses 32 per hhd. plenty, and no purchasers; coffee 22, declining; hides 4 rs. each; honey 50 per hhd.

"Our own market continues without much variation—flour, Phil. 17½; New-Orleans 14; rice 6½ a 7.

There is nothing political stirring. The times are gloomy enough—black vomit, seizures and losses, is depicted in every countenance—If I see this season through I shall live for ever.

P.S. The fever rages with great violence, and cases very fatal. Mr. Joseph Corry, of New-York, died yesterday, 2 days illness.

YELLOW STONE EXPEDITION.

Letters from Col. James Johnson.

Steam-Boat Expedition, off Belle Fontaine, 20th May 1819

Dear Sir—I have but a few minutes to inform you, that we arrived here day before yesterday. We have now experienced some of the difficulties of the Missouri.

In entering its mouth we ran aground on a sand bar, but so well are we fixed for such cases, that in 30 minutes we were afloat again. Soon after one of the snags or planters caught on a part of the guards which stopped the boat: but captain Craig being quick in resources to avoid damages, soon was clear of it.

We then soon came to a point of rapid water—here we beat back. We made several efforts to get over but failed. Capt. Craig then run out his warp and we soon went over the difficulty. I find that it will not do to load as heavy as I expected in this river.

My confidence in success is not in the least shaken—I do believe we shall succeed—I find we are well provided to meet difficulties. It was expensive to make these arrangements; but, Sir, I see their necessity. I am waiting now for orders to move up the Missouri and expect to receive them very shortly, I long to be on my march, every day is precious. The Missouri has not commenced its annual rise; but is in good order for navigation.

The Johnson and Jefferson are still behind, but I hourly expect their arrival. I expect every day that the government boat commanded by maj. Long will be here. I hope in her will come general Jessup and colonel Atkinson. Then we go to work.

Off Belle Fontaine, May 20, 1819.

Dear Sir—Since writing you this day, I have learned that the Johnson is now between this and St. Louis, and will be here to-morrow. The Jefferson, is about 100 miles below St. Louis; but has been so unfortunate as to break some part of her machinery, which will detain her a short time. The Calhoun will be here very shortly. I hope the Jefferson will be at head quarters as soon as the troops are ready—the 6th regiment is in the rear.

EXTRAORDINARY FLEECE.

It is stated in the Poughkeepsie Journal of Wednesday last that col. John Sterns, of the town of Fishkill, has this session, sheared a full blooded Merino ewe, whose fleece weighed eighteen and a half pounds. The ewe was four years old and had never been shorn. The wool is of a very fine staple, and from sixteen to eighteen inches in length.

New-York, June 26.

INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB.

An interesting occurrence took place on Wednesday at the institution.—a young lad, named George Drew Hawkins, from Albany received a letter from his father, he recognized the hand writing of his parent, and proceeded to open and read the letter—his countenance was the indignation of pleasure and intelligence; he read a few lines and burst into tears; the letter contained the mournful intelligence of the death of his sister. The effect was seen by the scholars, and the cause explained; when a general sympathy was observable in the countenances of all—many shed tears for the loss of little Hawkins, whose sorrows were so acute and afflicting. One charming girl took him by the hand and admonished him to be calm, for that his sister was gone to Heaven. The manner of making this communication to the distressed lad was intelligible and impressive, and seemed to assuage the grief of the little mourner for the moment.

Such was the effect of the association and instruction in this occurrence. It serves to show that the mutes of the institution have all the sensibilities, affection and reason of others of the family of man.

About three years ago, a dealer in hats in the city, put up a quantity of undressed fur hats in a square bale, and shipped them by one of the line of packets and stages to Baltimore. The package reached Philadelphia in safety, but between that place and Baltimore, the contents were purloined by some person unknown, and when it reached Baltimore it was found to contain nothing but old linen waappers, papers and stones. The owners of the hats brought a suit against the proprietor of the line for the recovery of the property, which was yesterday decided before the Supreme Court now sitting in this city. After a hearing of witnesses and counsel, the jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff—damages 400 dollars. [Gazette.

From the New Monthly Magazine.

SINGULAR ANECDOTE OF A DOG

The extraordinary exertions made by a dog belonging to a poor old man, now maintained by the duke of Penthievre, as related in the Literary Gazette for last year, have been greatly surpassed by a greyhound which lost his own master at the battle of Culloden. Mr. O. a young gentlemen from the south of Scotland, served as a volunteer in the company of a highland chief, or rather a demi-chieftain; and had been very kind to the animal previous to the fatal day. After the fall of Mr. M'D. the dog attached himself to Mr. O. but he was so remarkable for size and beauty, that the fugitive apprehended he would be the means of discovering his retreat. Two Highland lads, who had been soldiers in the same company, and undertook to guide the Southron through bye-paths, assured him, that the greyhound would be a safeguard able to cope with several men, unless they were assisted by fire arms. The Highlanders conducted Mr. O. through the Hills of Glenmoriston, Kintail, Knoidart, &c. and past Fort William to Appia, where they applied to a friend of their cause to ferry them to the opposite shore. This man would not venture to give such os tensible aid, but made them welcome to his boat, when darkness would conceal their embarkation. He advised them to land Mr. O. as he was most obnoxious to government, and nearly exhausted by travelling; and to return with the boat, leaving Mr. O. under some shelter, to recruit a little, since he was dreadfully wounded. They could rejoin him by going round to a narrow arm of the sea, where the public ferryman would show them favor if needful. Mr. O. was rowed to the opposite side, and left in a waste sheep cot, with his dog, while the young men went to take the boat to the owner. When the day dawned, Mr. O. in great anxiety hastened to look for his friends, as the night had been tempestuous. He soon descried the boat keel uppermost. His distress no poignancy of words can describe; a stranger to the country, and the language, wrung by mental and personal anguish, he thought of delivering himself up at a gentleman's house, he had been warned to shun, as his brothers were in the duke of Cumberland's army. He bent his steps in that direction; but observing a party of soldiers on an eminence, and two officers talking to them, he turned aside into a wood. It was the beginning of winter; the trees were leafless, but so thick of branches, and dwarf brushwood, as to afford some concealment. Mr. O. sat down, and for the first time, observed his dog carrying his wallet, containing provisions and dressings for his wounds. The animal laid down the wallet, and disappeared. In a little time he returned, laid his head on Mr. O's knee, and with mute eloquence, induced him to raise and follow. The dog led him to a cave where he soon fell asleep. On awaking, he found a great addition to his store. The dog had broken up the pantry of the gentleman's house, during the night, and brought the spoil to his master. A guard of soldiers prevented a repetition of depredations, and it has been supposed the greyhound noticed them, for he did not again approach the spot, and was not suspected. In those unhappy times, it was a point of humanity to feed strayed dogs, as so many lost their masters in the field of battle. Whatever the greyhound received he brought to Mr. O. lived upon game caught by himself. He licked Mr. O's woonds, and thus contributed to relieve the pain; and while he slept, the dog was generally vigilant. Happily, he was absent when an officer found Mr. O. in profound repose. He had removed the arms of the outlaw; but the dog would have strangled any one that approached. The officer gently awoke Mr. O. assuring him his intentions were not hostile. He requested only his word of honor never to mention having seen him, and he would send a trusty person at night to take him to his brother's house. He kept his word. Mr. O. was concealed in his family until his broken arm was cured; and he got safe to Holland with his faithful canine attendant.

Education.

THE subscriber respectfully informs the citizens of Alexandria, that he intends to open a school on Monday, the 14th inst. for the instruction of boys. He has provided himself with that very retired, airy and commodious room on Columbus-st. lately occupied as a school room by Mrs. Peyton.

Courses of Tuition.

Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography, History, Ancient and Modern, Chronology, Logic, Composition, Elocution, Bookkeeping, Mathematics, and the elements of Astronomy and Natural Philosophy: also, the Latin and Greek languages.

Terms of Tuition,

Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, English Grammar and Geography, 5 dollars per qr; History, Logic, Composition and Bookkeeping, 8 do; Mathematics, Philosophy, &c. 10 do; Languages, 12 do: pens, ink and pencils furnished in the school.

He assures those who may feel inclined to commit the important trust of the education of their children to him, that nothing on his part shall be wanting to give satisfaction. Upon his new and judicious plan of instruction, boys of ordinary capacity may go through a regular course of arithmetic, English Grammar and Geography in six months, and at the same time pay every necessary attention to their exercises in Reading and Writing.

He possesses the most substantial testimonials of character and capability, which he will feel happy to produce to any gentleman who may call upon him.

SALES AT AUCTION.

Mills at Auction.

THE subscriber, who is the owner of a MANUFACTURING MILL, called a Durable Geared Saw Mill, On Broad Run, Prince William County, wishes to sell, and intends offering them for sale by public auction, to the highest bidder, on the first day of July next.—Persons desirous of owning this kind of property, are particularly invited to attend the sale, as the property will be most positively sold on that day, and as an opportunity of purchasing Mills so truly desirable, will not again occur.—To render the purchase still more desirable, there will be attached to these mills,

150 Acres of excellent Land,

One half of which will be in wood, or the whole, if required by the purchaser. In point of locality, no mills can be better situated, within half a mile of the road leading to the Thoroughfare Gap of the mountain, which is the route established by Act of Assembly as a Turnpike, to which there is the most ready access; and being surrounded by a country well timbered, and occupied by excellent Farmers, who cultivate extensively. Both these mills are in complete order for work, having lately undergone thorough repairs. In the Grist Mill, there are two pair of large Burrs and a pair of Stones for the Corn custom, which are turned by a force of water sufficient for the operation of an additional pair of Burrs, for which the house is abundantly commodious.

The terms of sale, one third of the purchase money in hand, and the balance to be divided into two equal payments of one and two years, without interest, and possession to be given on the first day of August, which will be immediately preceding the commencement of the manufacturing season.

The prospect for a crop of wheat the present season in this neighborhood, and for a considerable extent upwards is very flattering, and to a person who could apply his funds to such an object, it is confidently believed that no pursuit whatever would be attended with greater profit.—The sale will take place on the premises, well known in the neighborhood by the name of the Cloverland Mills, about half a mile from the subscriber's place of residence. EDWARD E. CARTER.

Public Sale.

BY virtue of a deed of trust from John M'Pherson, to secure the payment of a debt to the late Wm. Hepburn, his heirs and executors, the subscriber will offer, at public auction, on the premises, on Saturday the 31st instant,

A TRACT OF LAND,

In Fairfax county, Va. about six miles from Alexandria, known by the name of Mount Hebron; or so much thereof as will be sufficient to satisfy and pay the sum of ten thousand dollars, with interest, from the 1st April, 1817. A large proportion of this land is in wood. The improvements on the premises, are two dwelling houses, one of them of brick, a small country mill with one pair of stones, a saw mill, and a building, lately occupied as a cotton factory, with an extensive orchard of various kinds of fruit. The sale will commence at o'clock, when the terms, with any other information which shall be desired, will be given by THOMAS SWANN,

Trustee.

Public Sale.

UNDER the authority of a deed of trust from Abiel Holbrook, to secure a debt due to Wm. S. Moore, the subscriber will offer at public sale, on the premises, at 5 o'clock, P. M. on FRIDAY the 2d July, for cash, a lot of land, near the town of Alexandria, beginning on the east side of the Washington Turnpike road, in or near the southern boundary of the land formerly Parthenia Dade's, and extending northwardly on said road thirty-three and an half poles, containing nine acres twenty-two poles; and one other lot on the west side of Washington-street extended, and on the north side of the second street to be laid off north from Montgomery-street, according to the plan of the town, containing one acre and one-fourth.

june 17 thstut2 R. I. TAYLOR.

Public Sale.

ON the 9th DAY of JULY next, at 12 o'clock of that day, by virtue of a deed of trust, we will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, on the premises, that very valuable tract of land in Fairfax county, near Holmes's Run, and about four miles from Alexandria, generally known by the name of containing about 115 acres. This land is about one half in wood—the balance cleared, and in cultivation, with convenient buildings on it, and excellent water near them. A considerable proportion of the open land is fertile, and well calculated for timothy meadows.

The sum of $2,254 77 cts will be required to be paid in cash; for the residue a credit of twelve months will be given from the day of sale, the purchaser paying interest thereon, and giving satisfactory security for the punctual payment thereof. A conveyance will be made when the purchase money and interest is all paid up. If the terms of the sale should not be complied with by the purchaser, the premises will be immediately re-sold to the highest bidder, at the risque of the person to whom it shall have been struck off; and the same course will be repeated until an effectual sale shall have taken place.

Hill and Dale, April 20.

Estate for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain; being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25

Notice,

To Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Tanners Harness-Makers, Saddlers, Hatters, &c.

BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RATCLIFFE.

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the

Washington Theological REPERTORY:

EDITORS { Rev. Wm. Hawley, Washington, Rev. Wm. H. Wilmer, Alexandria, Rev. Oliver Norris, Alexandria, Rev. Reuel Keith, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publecation will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.

TERMS OF THE WORK.

A volume of the Repertory shall consist of twelve numbers, of which one shall be published on the first day of every month, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, stitched in blue, and attended with a table of contents.

The paper used in the work shall be good, and the typography executed with the greatest care.

The price of a volume is two dollars, payable in advance; to such as omit the advance, two dollars and fifty cents.

It is designed to enlarge the size of the work, without increasing the price, as soon as one thousand subscribers shall be obtained.

Communications and remittances may be directed to any of the editors, post paid.

Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

The first number may be expected in the month of July. June 26

THE subscribers respectfully inform their friends and the public, that they have entered into copartnership, and their business will be transacted under the firm of ASHBY & STRIBLING.

Their ware-house is near the upper end of King-street, and opposite the diagonal pump; where they will purchase and receive flour on storage.

They intend keeping GROCERIES, which they will sell at a small profit for cash. TURNER ASHBY,
